Dandruff Soon Ruins The Hair

Girls-if you want plenty of thick beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you

It doesn't do much good to try to bruch or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dis-solve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scarp and rub it in gently with the Bagatad, where the Chliph lived, was surprised to receive a message from the ruler.

"Uncle Wigsily, don't you want to so on an excursion with me tonight" asked the Caliph. "We may have an adventure and hear a good story about it for your new book."

"I certainly do want to go," said the bunny uncle. "I will come over in my airship," which he did, having it painted red, white and blue on purpose to merch his rheumatism crutch which Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy, his muskrat lady housekieper, gnawed for him out of a cornstalk.

Then Uncle Wissilj not ready for his night adventure with the Caliph made himself look like a sailor, while the guards masqueraded like beggars, so no one knew them.

The Caliph and Uncle Wiggily had not walked very far through the streets of Bagdad, the wonderful city, when, all at once, at a corner where there was a candy stand, and a place where a man sold orang-ade, they saw a barber sitting on a rug, die feet stretched out in front of him and a basket of glass near his feet.

The barber seemed to be fast asteen, and cell glassware. He ought to shout and cell what he has to sell, as the other stand owners all round are doing."

"That is a funny way to de business and sell glassware. He ought to shout and tell what he has to sell, as the other stand owners all round are doing."

"That is right." said the Calipa, For

Then he will not have to keep his a basket where it may be kieked over," for many merchants in Bagdad have their stores on little stands or baskets in the street.

"But I can never get rich shaving men here," said the man.

"Then come to Woodland," said the hunny. "It will soon he spring there, and all the animals will want their winter coats of hair and fur cut. You can find plenty of cutting and shaving to do, so you will soon be rich and can hur the glass store."

"So I can" cried the harber, "I'm never going to be so foolish as to sit and dream in front of a hasket of glass again and break it."

And he did not, and the Caliph Haroun al Raschid invited Uncle Wirgily to come to Bagdad again and have more adventures.
